Reading:

Read a fictional book of your choice (no graphic novels). Consider the following question before you read: How do you handle conflict in your life? What skills do you need to effectively resolve a conflict?

When we read novels, we encounter many types of conflict that are integral to the plot of the story. These conflicts can take various forms:

- Character vs. character - the struggle between two opposing characters
- Character vs. nature - the character struggles with nature as an obstacle (tornado, fire, hurricane, storm, etc.)
- Character vs. self - an internal struggle that affects the character's actions, feelings, and interactions with other characters
- Character vs. society – the character struggles or disagrees with societal beliefs, laws, values, or customs

Writing:

After reading your novel, write a brief summary of the story. List two conflicts that occur in the story and tell what type of conflict each is. Name a character trait the protagonist has and give support from the story in the form of a quote that shows why you chose that trait. Include the title and author in your summary.

Grammar:

Log in to IXL using your Google Account. https://www.ixl.com/signin/incarnation
Work on the following 4 IXL skills until you reach a smart score of 80. If it is taking you more than 15 minutes take a break and revisit at a later time. Please email Ms. Colclough if you continue to struggle to reach the 80 smartscore.

Skill	Time	Smart Score
R5 - suggesting appropriate revisions
HH1 - helping verbs
MM1 - direct/indirect object
DD7 - sentence fragments

Once you have completed each task, mark the GOOGLE CLASSROOM assignment as submitted.

Note to Parents and students:

The county Library has a list of suggested books by grade level, but you may wish to consult Common Sense Media for summaries and recommendations on appropriate content for book selections.
